

Year 11 Easter Letter Thursday 28th March 2024

Well done year 11! You have made it to the end of another busy half term. Your approach to the latest trial exams was exemplary. We need to replicate this in the summer. You are now entering the end game and are on the final stretch towards the summer Exams. It is important that you don't stop now. Remember it is a marathon and not a sprint. You should have your revision schedule up and running, be specific with your aims and objectives, and time yourself! Make sure you have rest breaks.

There is a lot of information to give you at this time, so I have broken it down into sections so hopefully it is easy to read and you can find the information you are looking for easily.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact either myself, or if it is subject specific, your teachers.

Kind regards,

Ms A Beel

Revision Tips

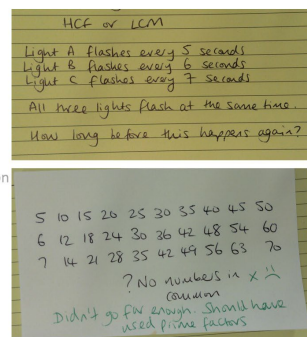

Using Revision Cards Effectively

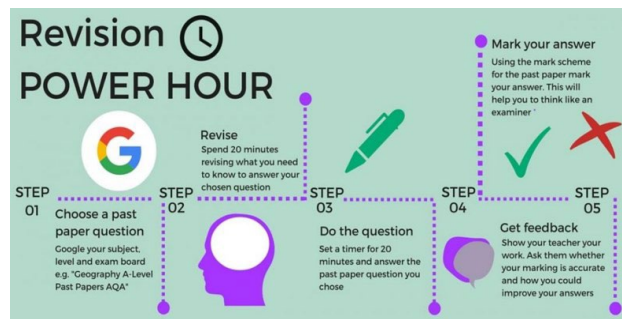

- Find some exam questions

Dr Frost
MathsGenie
Corbett Maths

- Question on the front, worked solution on the back
- Test yourself!!!!

Make sure you are getting the best / most effective use out of your revision cards! Testing yourself with exam questions, and understanding where you went wrong will help you get it right next time.

Managing time and putting it to effective use is really important.

We cannot stress enough the importance of attendance at these sessions; even more so as we reach the final few weeks before the exams begin! Sessions will continue after the Easter break, please make every effort to attend. You never know what nugget of information you might pick up and remember in your exam!

Directed and Independent Study

You should now be bringing study materials with you every day. Whether that is for the time before school in the South Hall, if you have opted for study sessions in PE, or your subjects are coming to an end and they are now lessons in which you can complete your independent study tasks. You should be prepared with the topics you want to cover and how you will show you have achieved what you set out to do.

If you need any extra resources for this (practice exam questions) please make sure you ask your subject teachers in plenty of time.
